DAMON BROS., who were entire strangers in Salem a year ago, gained suce a mammoth trade at the extreme end of the business blocks? BARGAINS DO IT. IN CROCKERY they sell dinner sets at one-half what the same were sold for a year ago, I TEAS they charge from 10c to 30c less than other stores. IN CANNED GOODS they sell for 15c the same brands that others ask 25c to 30c for.

IN RAISINS they sell 20 lbs. for $1, while other dealers give you only 10 to 12 lbs. of the very same grade.

USE OF EDITORIAL SPACE.

In the "National Journalist" fo eptember an editor discusses what is legitimate use of editorial space He has fallen into the palpable error of assuming that editorial columns are the "goods an editor has to sell," and that they "are as legitima" by the lawyer, doctor, merchant or farmer." This is a false doctrine.

Later on in his paper this editor mes nearer reaching what should comes nearer reaching what should be his right mind, when he says: "A newspaper should have a stand-ard of principles out of reach of any mercenary consideration." But he lapses again when he says a news-paper can sell its editorial space for advertising the merits of local interests, its party, a candidate of its party, or any such purpose whatever. A newspaper cannot sell its edi-torial space or opinions and retain
